 - After executing the pattern, contestants will dismount and be asked questions pertaining to tack, horse selection, care, feeding, diseases, anatomy, rodeo, etc.
 - The contestant's style of responding to these questions should be the basis for the personality score she receives in horsemanship, while the content of the answers should be used as part of her actual horsemanship score.
 - After remounting and riding to the gate, the contestant will present a flag in the arena on horseback.

- Second Go-Round
 - Rail work – these are the same guidelines that are used at the Miss Rodeo America Pageant.
 - All contestants will enter the arena along the rail and for a specific amount of time determined by the judges. The announcer will give the instructions. The judges reserve the right to make alterations and/or additions to these instructions.

Scrapbooks are not part of the formal scoring that determines Teen Miss Rodeo South Dakota and the participation or lack thereof in the scrapbook competition will not be factored into selecting Teen Miss Rodeo South Dakota. The following suggestions are guidelines only and not to be considered as hard fast rules and/or regulations.

- Size: Anything too large is hard to look at and review properly. If you chose a smaller size, make sure it is not jumbled up or cramped. Avoid excessive thickness.
- Appearance & Attractiveness: This should be considered throughout the entire book, from cover to cover. The project should be attractive and neat.
- Content: A variety of items and photos can include memorabilia from early childhood to the present time; items collected from appearances; and items the contestant cherishes. The scrapbook should be made for the contestant personally – not for the pageant.
- Workmanship & Ingenuity: Personal care, being sure the pages turn easily, and items are well secured from cover to cover.
- Organization & Identification: The material should be in chronological order. Photographs, places, memorabilia, etc. should be properly identified.
- Originality & Presentation: The original, practical, and innovative manner in which the overall product is prepared.
- Type: The scrapbook may be a traditional scrapbook with three dimensional elements or a bound photo type book among other options.
